Let Industry Alone.

"Industry, let alone, is the only thing that can bring about recovery," said Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, recently.

"Industry, let alone, is the only safety for our government . . .

"You cannot reform a scared, discontented, idle people. The first steps to reform are to let business recover."

That comes from a man in high public office. If the attitude it represents would swiftly spread to other officials, in both state and federal government, the nation would be considerably nearer better times.

VOLUME NUMBER THREE CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1935 NUMBER 19

Townsend Old-age Pensions Practical

Extracts from an Article by John H. Hoeppel, Congressman representing the Twelfth District of California, published in The People's Money, a New York magazine of finance.

The Townsend Plan has been declared to be fantastic, idealistic, absolutely preposterous and absurd.

Answering such critics who appear to be sincere in their statements, but whose judgment and understanding of this problem seem to me immature, may I request the reader's attention to the fact that every important movement in history has been assailed by innumerable critics whose prejudices prevented them from readily accepting new ideas which did not conform to established custom and tradition.

A few instances of progress which met opposition are the steam engine, our public school system, the ability of men to fly and to navigate under the surfaces of the sea. History is filled with such illustrations, and, in nearly every instance, the inventors or proponents of new ideas were forced to combat the orthodox thought of individuals whose minds were not attuned with liberal vision.

Distressing Conditions Demand Congressional Action

Congress is responsible for the present unfortunate plight of our people, and Congress alone can correct and remedy the injustices, under which we suffer, through the enactment of legislation of a permanent nature which will forever remove the specter of poverty enveloping our unfortunate worthy citizens today.

In order that Congress may recognize its responsibilities, let us consider briefly what exists today in our beloved America where, under the Constitution, every man is entitled to the pursuit of happiness, the attainment of which, however, is impossible for many of our citizens under the existing economic order.

Picture, if you will, millions of our worthy, aged citizens, bereft of their life's earnings through bank failures, deprived of their homes as a penalty for debts incurred in necessity, and steeped in the depths of misery, suffering, and beggary through absolutely no fault of their own. In addition to the millions of aged unfortunates, we have millions of unemployed who, in the opinion of Mr. Hopkins, the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, will continue to be unemployed. This is, indeed, a pathetic forecast if it were true—but, happily, it need not be so.

We have millions of young boys and girls, graduating from our schools and universities who have absolutely no chance of life under our present economic set-up. They are doomed to a low standard of living, bordering on abject poverty, and, in too many instances, to lives of moral degradation. These millions of aged and young citizens have been patriotically patient; but, in my opinion, they are rapidly approaching a crisis, as it is self-evident to all that patience is not a virtue in every contingency, especially under such inequality of conditions as now confronts them.

The Two-fold Purpose of the Townsend Plan

There has been a great deal of superficial newspaper comment on the Townsend plan, but there is a surprising lack of understanding as to its underlying purpose. It is not designed merely to grant benefits to one class of individuals, the aged, but to give increased opportunities to youth as well, and to assure economic recovery to our entire Nation. Many people over 60 years of age are forced, through financial exigencies, to cling to employment which they would gladly relinquish to young persons if they were able to do so and maintain themselves in dignity and comfort. The Townsend C. A. R. P. would not only make their retirement possible, but compulsory, if they wish to receive the $200 monthly pension. And so the Townsend plan is heralded by millions of our young people as the plan which will give them a better chance in the field of competitive employment, a chance to live normal lives, to establish homes and enjoy the security of financial independence.

We should bear in mind that with the large expansion of credit and the slight expansion of actual money during the World War, we had an era of prosperity which permitted the humblest laborer to purchase luxuries. The price of wheat rose to $2.20 per bushel, wages were as high as $20 per day, there was virtually no unemployment and not even the merest semblance of a bread line. Our national income increased to such proportions that the party advocated and actually reduced taxation. These facts clearly demonstrate a high expansion of credit and currency insures a high commodity price level and at the same time increase the wages of the worker.

The payment of the Townsend old-age pensions would be a similar expansion of credit and currency in circulation and would increase our national income proportionately. With a present national income of approximately $41,000,000,000, the Federal income from all sources has been estimated at $3,711,650,688. Our national income, with the expansion of credit and currency through the Townsend plan, would be increased three or fourfold and our Federal income would likewise be increased to approximately $15,000,000,000 per annum, thus giving another large source of income from which to pay the Townsend pensions.

The revolving, controlled, and limited inflation which would followed the enactment of the Townsend plan, in addition to other benefit I have described, would make it possible for all public and private debts, which today approximate $225,000,000,000, to be paid with the dollar of the same purchasing power as when the debts were incurred and would thus relieve the burden of the debtors in this proportion.

Old-Age Pensions a National Responsibility

Old-age pensions are, in my opinion, the sole responsibility of the National government.

The revolving feature of the Townsend plan, providing that the entire sum of the pension shall be expended within 30 days of its receipt for "goods, commodities, or services within the jurisdiction of the United States," is our insurance against selfish hoarding of the pension and our assurance also that its stimulative effect will be felt throughout all branches of industry and in every section of our entire country.

Our volume of spending is not of sufficient proportion to generate real purchasing power. What this nation needs and must have is increased purchasing power, distributed throughout the length and breadth of our country, virtually into every hamlet. The Townsend plan proposes this very remedy thru the large amount of money which will be placed in circulation thru its operation. As soon as purchases commence, the shelves of the storekeeper will become vacant. Presently, the broker will have such heavy demands on his stock that his shelves will become empty. Next the manufacturer will be called upon to replenish the stock of the broker. And so the stimulative effect of increased purchasing power will be felt throughout all industry and unemployment will cease. There will be no necessity for unemployment insurance of any kind as the Townsend plan will start the cycle of buying which, in turn, will react on the cycle of production and within a reasonable time after the pension plan is initiated, we will have generated a purchasing power which will bring about real recovery.

No Relief Expenditures Under Townsend Plan

The payment of the Townsend pensions during the past two years would have obviated the expenditure of $9,000,000,000 during that period for relief, and the further expenditure of $4,000,000,000 this year for this purpose, which is another item to be considered in the adoption or the Townsend plan.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gregory and Mrs. Betty Setchel and two children of Carmel sailed from San Francisco on Tuesday of last week for Tahiti, and plan to be away from home for several weeks.

"Half-off" Rate Genuine Saving

Consumers of electricity served by the Pacific Gas and Electric company have saved $460,000 during the first four months of 1935 through the "Half Off" rate reduction introduced at the beginning of the year, according to a statement issued today from the office of P. M. Downing, vice-president and general manager.

Total savings amounting to more than $1,350,000 for the year ending next December will be realized by consumers if increased use of electricity continues at the rate established during the four months the discount offer has been in effect.

The "Half Off" offer grants a discount of 50 per cent for all electricity used in excess of the amount consumed in the corresponding month of last year. It is applicable to commercial lighting and domestic consumers who have been served at the same location for 12 months.

The announced purpose of the discount offer is to stimulate greater consumption of electricity in the home and for commercial lighting, by reducing the cost of such extra use to one-half the regular rates. That consumers are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy more liberal use of their electric facilities is indicated by the fact that in only four months their savings have amounted to nearly one-half million dollars.

Twenty Prize Winners at Card Party

The whist party at the Manzanita Club Friday night given for the benefit of Carmel Townsend Club proved a very enjoyable affair. Robert Leidig was chairman of the Manzanita club's committee in charge and he proved a master of the art of making the guests feel welcome and keeping everybody happy. Seventy tickets altogether were sold, and 15 tables were filled during the game. Twenty prizes were awarded in addition to the door prize of $5.00, which was won by George Branch. Among other prize winners were R. Phillips, W. M. Phillips, Mrs. D. L. Dawson, E. R. Hill, Roy Goodrich, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Robert Leidig, Henry Boysen, W. W. Smith, Pon Chung, Susan Rosh, S. L. Layton, Mrs. Schaack, Paul Newell, R. Moore, Maude Lewis, Mary Townsend, Mrs. A. E. Pfremmer, Ben Phillips and Nettie Phillips.

Everybody had such a good time that they urged that another party be given soon, and Mr. Leidig suggested that it could be done in about two weeks.

The Townsend club committee on prizes desires to thank sincerely the several business people who gave so generously in prizes.

The Townsend club meets every Monday night in the lunch room at the north end of Sunset school. If you want to get better informed on the object of the movement attend the meeting. You will be welcome. It opens a 8:00 o'clock.

Two Theatres May Replace One Burned

Carmel's loss by fire of the beautiful Golden Bough Theatre on May 19, instead of depriving the city of its leading asset, is likely to result in bringing two theatres here.

Early last week a movement led by Mrs. McAdam and other devotees of the dramatic art in Carmel, was started to finance by popular subscription a plan to restore to Golden Bough playhouse to its original charm. The committee is now engaged in making a canvass of the peninsula for the pledges, which will need to aggregate about $50,000.

The Monterey Theatres Company, lessees of the Golden Bough at the time of the fire and operators of the moving picture theatre, have announced that they will begin soon on the erection of a theatre at the corner of Ocean avenue and Mission street, east of the post office. The cost will be about $50,000, and an equal amount will be invested in equipment and furnishings. David J. Bolton, of Monterey, manager of the company, has already exhibited plans for the new playhouse. Work will start early this month with a view to having the building completed in August.

In the meantime motion pictures will probably be shown in the auditorium of Sunset school, negotiations for use of which are now being concluded with the school trustees.

Plans provide for a large stage, 25 to 30 feet in depth, adequate to permit staging of any of the larger road shows. It is Bolton's hope that the place may become the amusement center of the village, as its facilities will be made available for amateur dramatic productions, as well as musical and other forms of entertainment.

The structure will occupy a site 75 feet wide on Ocean, extending 150 feet deep on Mission street.

Big Sur Scout Camp Opens June 16

Complete organization plans for Camp Wing, the council-operated summer camp of the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, located in the beautiful Big Sur State Park, have been completed, according to an announcement by the council's camping committee. The camp will open June 16 and remain in session until July 14, a period of four weeks. The camp will be operated for a longer period of time, if registrations warrant.

This week-end, June 1-2, a large crew of volunteer scouters will visit the camp, and construct an 800-sack dam for the swimming pool. A new and large campfire circle has already been completed. Other projects include a campcraft shop, where scouts will have opportunity to make "camp gadgets," and a museum for nature study. Construction of the dam will be supervised by Harris E. Rowe, vice-president of the council and an engineer. Other construction work will be in charge of John Grau.

Fred Flodberg, Watsonville, an experienced scoutmaster, has been selected as camp director. He will be assisted by Stanley Smith, Santa Cruz, who will also be responsible for pack trips and hikes.

Dr. Gordon Richmond, of Stanford University, will be medical director. His additional duties will be first aid instructor, campfire programs, and Sunday religious services, health and sanitation of the camp.

Warren P. Tormey, San Jose, official Red Cross Life Saving Instructor, will be waterfront director, supervising and instructing in swimming and life saving. He will be assisted by Burr Scott, Salinas.

Richard Miller, Gonzales, will serve as quartermaster, in charge of the camp store, and responsible for troop menus. Norman Bundgard, Salinas, will be responsible for nature study.

The work of the senior and junior staff will, of course, be supplemented by adult troop leaders from the various troops attending camp. The council camping committee consists of N. W. Black, Salinas, chairman; Everett Smith, Carmel, Frank Huffman, Gabilan; Frank Sparling, Hollister; F. E. Grantham, Monterey; Fred Walti, Santa Cruz; and Lee Purtill, Watsonville.

Miss Mary Louise Parsons returned recently from Fresno, where she spent several days visiting with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott of Elsinor are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Reynolds on San Antonio street.
